

COLLEGE ADMISSIONS ESSAY

College Admissions Essay

Hook statement

I am an individual who has always had a love for sound and music. I grew up in a family of musicians, so I was constantly surrounded by music. This exposure to sound at an early age cultivated my interest and helped me develop a taste for it. As I grew older, I continued to explore different types of music and sounds, which only furthered my passion for this art form. Moreover, this sparked a curiosity in me to explore the technical aspects of sound production and recording. One day, I saw the movie Interstellar made by Christopher Nolan, in which Hans Zimmer provided the background music. Most of the movie's background music was slow piano and violin sounds that added an extra layer of emotion and depth in each scene. After seeing that movie, I decided to learn how to play the piano and violin so that one day I could become a self-taught pianist and a 1st chair violinist.

Anecdotal information to engage readers

Thesis statement or central idea

Music is my comfort zone, and I'm always finding ways to explore it. Whether that's learning new instruments, discovering new genres and artists, or experimenting with sound engineering and production - I'm constantly on the lookout for new sounds and music to enrich my life. I also have a passion for teaching music and sharing my knowledge with others. I have been giving private piano lessons for over five years now, and the joy of seeing someone else be able to make music is indescribable. Through all of this experience, music has become more than just a hobby - it has become an integral part of who I am today. Music is not something that can be taught but rather felt and experienced. That is why I take such pleasure in exploring the depth details of how each note in a piano and violin works and how all notes come together in a rhythmic manner to give out a comforting sound that eats away all of my negative emotions.

Personal information about interest and aspirations

I started by learning how to play the piano. I practiced every day, learning new songs and pieces. After a while, I became really good at it and decided to try playing the violin. It was a little harder because the techniques were different, but I practiced just as much and eventually became the first chair in my orchestra. Moreover, I enrolled in a music school to further my skills and knowledge. Learning music theory, ear training, and sight-reading really helped me become an even better musician. Now, I'm in college pursuing a degree in Music Performance.

Specific examples about their accomplishments and experiences

My goal is to one day teach music and help others learn how to play instruments too. I'm so passionate about music that it's become a part of my everyday life. I make time for practice every day and am constantly looking for new opportunities to expand my skill set. Whether it's attending concerts or workshops or simply jamming with friends at home, I strive to always stay connected with the world of music around me.

In conclusion, my personality is composed of dedication and passion. I have always been drawn to sound and music, and because of that, I pursued a career in them. I started by learning how to play the piano and violin, which developed my skillset and knowledge base. From there, I enrolled in a music school to continue my education. Now, I'm working on getting my degree in Music Performance so that

Recollection of experiences and future goals about interest

I can become a teacher myself. Music has not only given me a livelihood but also a sense of purpose. It's something that brings me joy and comfort, as each note of a piano eats away at all of my negative emotions, and I hope to be able to share that with others for years to come.